Employer:
Epic

Position Title:
Software Development Co-op – Fall 2015

Description:
During your Software Development co-op, you'll complete a project that makes an impact in healthcare over just a semester. You will receive mentoring from brilliant colleagues, and learn about the software development industry from the experts. We have an entrepreneurial mentality so you'll see everything that goes into software development, from user requirement gathering to design, testing, documentation, customer support, and user interface design--this is more than coding.

We'll present you with a challenge, and we'll expect you to deliver something great.

Epic's developers directly impact the way one in three Americans receive healthcare - in fact, we are likely impacting the life of someone close to you. Working at the juncture of two growing fields, medicine and computer science, you'll help create the best software for your users' needs. Epic is located in Madison, Wisconsin, a city regularly ranked as one of America’s best places to live.

Qualifications:
- Working towards a BS/BA or greater in Computer Science, Software Engineering, Mathematics, or a related field (with at least one semester left)
- Currently attending school in the US
- Willing to work full-time for at least one semester
- A history of academic success
- Visa sponsorship is available
