Java Software Engineer

Have you ever wanted to work at a small but growing software engineering consulting firm? Are you known for your exceptional customer service and communication skills? Do you love to analyze, help push to find the right solution, and write code? Do you have work experience writing data driven Java (Spring/Grails) web applications and Web Services? Do you want to be part of a great team?

The Web and Mobile Solutions team within the Division of Information Technology (DoIT) at the University of Wisconsin-Madison is a group of just over a dozen software engineers that builds and supports custom data driven web and mobile applications for external customers all across campus. The group has three technology stack focuses – Java (Spring/Grails), ASP.NET (C#/MVC/Web Forms), and mobile application development (Android, iOS). We use a mix of server-side and client-side code to provide custom solutions to our customers and partners, leveraging new and exciting frameworks.

Our team is currently hiring for a mid to senior level Java Software Engineer.

Please use the formal application process in the link below to apply.
Application deadline is September 28, 2014.

Our pay is good, the benefits are great, the work culture is fantastic, career growth opportunities abound, and we are always striving for work life balance. Can you beat that?

- Beautiful Campus Setting (http://jobs.wisc.edu/madison.htm)
- Great city (http://www.cityofmadison.com/residents/)
- Big impact (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cme5_w-2Aaw)

The Division of Information Technology (DoIT) provides computer technology services to the University of Wisconsin-Madison and a more limited set of services to UW System and other units of State government. DoIT delivers desktop, server, and mainframe computing services and supports networks, telecommunications, Internet connectivity, administrative and academic systems, security, instructional technology, and other functions.

DoIT serves the campus community of 2,053 faculty, 16,321 staff, and more than 41,000 students. More than 900 permanent, limited-term and student staff work at DoIT. Our annual budget is approximately $100 million. For more information: www.doit.wisc.edu

UW-Madison is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. We promote excellence through diversity and encourage all qualified individuals to apply.